Observe Lincoln's Assassination with Walking Tour

WASHINGTON D.C. – (March 31, 2015) – April 15th will mark 150 years since President Abraham Lincoln was assassinated. Even now we are still a country fascinated with the man who changed the course of history and managed to keep the nation intact. Commemorate Lincoln and learn more about this critical part of our history by going “behind the scenes” on the streets of our Capital with a new walking tour offered by the Crime Museum.

“Through the years we have always put guest suggestions into action. Often tourists asked us if we had an assassination-themed walking tour of DC, so I am glad we can finally fulfill this request,” states Janine Vaccarello, chief operating officer of the Crime Museum. “It seems appropriate to launch “Assassinations in the Capital” during anniversary of Lincoln’s death and guests will experience not only Lincoln’s story, but other presidential assassinations in a unique Crime Museum fashion I have no doubt our guests will enjoy.”

The Crime Museum’s “Assassinations in the Capital” lasts 90 minutes and covers two miles. Those who take the tour will experience a fascinating journey to locations such as the site of President Garfield’s assassination, sites related to the conspiracy to kill President Lincoln, the site of an attempt on the life of President Truman, the Navy Memorial, FBI Headquarters, the White House, and Lafayette Square. The tour is designed for ages 10 and up.

In addition to offering the walking tour, participants can visit the Crime Museum to learn a wide variety of other notable crime history. Temporary and permanent exhibits cover topics ranging from domestic terrorism to wildlife trafficking (coming soon). The museum also offers hands-on exhibits and interactive forensic workshops.

To purchase tickets for the walking tour, or get more information about this or other exhibits at the Crime Museum, visit www.crimemuseum.org.
